THE BEST TEST

Is the Test of Time

Years ago Mrs. Mary Gammon of 20 Maple street, Norway, told of good results from using Doan's Kidney Pills.

Now Mrs. Gammon confirms the former statement—says there has been no return of the trouble. Can Norway people ask for more convincing testimony?

"I have kept Doan's Kidney Pills in my home for years," says Mrs. Gammon. "I had a dull, heavy ache across the small of my back and often attacks of dizziness came over me. Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at Kimball's Drug Store relieved me of this trouble. I use Doan's Kidney Pills off and on as a kidney tonic and I couldn't wish for anything better to keep my kidneys in a healthy condition." (Statement given June 7, 1916).

On September 4, 1920 Mrs. Gammon said: "I have always a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills since they cured me of kidney trouble. I am pleased to again give my endorsement. I confirm all that I said in my former statement as my cure has been permanent."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gammon had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

HAD NOT WORKED FOR MANY MONTHS

Portland Man in Dreadful Health Before Taking Tanlac—Gains 15 Pounds—and Feels Fine

"I'm now enjoying the best of health and feeling fine, and I wouldn't take anything on earth for the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," said Fred E. Sawtelle, 103 Forest Ave., Portland, Me.

"I have gained fifteen pounds in weight and am always ready for a good day's work, but I was in awful shape before I got hold of Tanlac. Why, for three months, I wasn't able to do a lick of work. I had rheumatism in my back, hips and legs, and got so bad off I was sent to a hospital for a couple of weeks, but failed to get any better. My kidneys were badly disordered, too, and at night when I lay down I would be in such pain I could scarcely sleep. There were weeks when I could hardly turn over in bed, and I was in pain and misery all the time.

"After reading so much about Tanlac and what it had done for others, I decided to try it myself and the medicine has simply made a new man of me. The rheumatism has disappeared entirely, my kidneys are in fine order and I never have an ache or pain. I sleep like a top every night and, as I said, have actually gained fifteen pounds in weight. I feel just fine in every way, and don't hesitate to give Tanlac credit for putting me in such splendid health."

TO LEAVE PROPERTY FOR PARK

Hudson Maxim, the inventor and author, has made known that by the wills of himself and Mrs. Maxim his residential property and lands adjoining on the west shore of Lake Hopatcong are to be left at their deaths for a public park. He disclosed this in a public issue with statements made by Mayor Theodore A. Gessler of Hopatcong, whom Mr. Maxim is opposing for reelection. Mayor Gessler declared that he sought office again because Mr. Maxim, having made his money through large holdings at the lake, had too many "personal and selfish" interests there to make a good Mayor.

"I have not made a cent of profit from my investments on Lake Hopatcong," he asserts, adding that his inventions have brought him large sums from the government and the Du Pont companies.

PHINEAS' PHILOSOPHY

By Via Kimball

"Speaking of Business Conditions"
Ever since last summer things ain't what they ought to be in the business world and I guess it do't take me to tell 'em' this. I can't fall they was all sayin' that things would be better after Election. After this big event they had to think up another excuse, an they then says "After Inauguration" an I don't see no signs for the Best.

I figure that they have got to wait till after the public gets some more cash that they can spare. The merchants shouldn't kick so hard at takin less profit for their goods then they used to, cause they can't expect to fool the Public all the time. The Public sure got fooled good when the cash was comin' in easy an they ought to wait, just as they are doin now. Just as Shakespeare says "The worm will turn."

I notis that "old father High Cast of Livin'" is still with us an I been rather ho'm' he would take a vacation this' fall all alone. I am sure that he won't be disturbed with a whole lot of company. As some wise nut once said "Every Dog has his Day." Yours truly, Phin.

Gov. Baxter has officially announced Thursday, Nov. 24, as a day of Thanksgiving and expects all good citizens to eat a big dinner and give thanks to the Almighty.

Nothing of the sort has ever happened to them and Mrs. Pendexter has never been even near an accident as described, is Mr. Bickford's declaration.

PHINEAS' PHILOSOPHY
By Win Kimball
"Speaking of Business Conditions"
Ever since last summer, things ain't what they ought to be in the business world. I guess it don't take me to tell 'em this. Last fall they was all sayin' 'things would be better after Election. After this big event they had to think up another excuse, an they then says, 'After the first of the year, we'll see 'em. 'After Inauguration' an I don't see no signs for the Best.

I figger that they have got to wait till after the public gets some more cash they can spare. The merchants shouldn't kick so hard at taking less profit for their goods than they used to, cause they can't expect to fool the Public all the time. The Public sure got fooled good when the cash was comin' in easy as they ought to wait, jest as they are doin' now. Just as Shakespeare says "The worm will turn."

I notis that "old father High Cast of Livin'" is still with us an I been rather hopin' he would take a vacation this fall all alone. I am sure that he wouldn't be disturbed with a whole lot of company. As some wise nut once said "Every Dog has his Day." Yours truly, Phin.

Gov. Baxter has officially announced Thursday, Nov. 24, as a day of Thanksgiving and expects all good citizens to eat a big dinner and give thanks to the Almighty.

Have you sent your subscription of $1.50 to the Advertiser or handed it to your correspondent? If not why not do it now?

It doesn't do any good to admit to yourself you are a fool unless you resolve to get over it.

HINTS FOR THE DAIRY MAN
In speaking before the East Oxford Dairy Testing Association, at East Oxford, Nov. 7, Prof. L. S. Corbett, of the Department of Animal Industry, University of Maine, covered many points of vital interest to dairymen. "The most direct help to the members by giving information gained from observation of the practices of various farmers with respect to care and feeding of the animals. The biggest thing to be gotten, the member should observe the differences in production of the individuals and thereby eliminate the unprofitable ones."

"Our cows should be the means for selling the feed we give them. Use the records to tell which cows sell our feed at the greatest profit to us. Why keep an animal that brings a profit? Here is a market that they have not got a producing herd, but it can be done."

Calling attention to the summary of the records for the first three months of the year, Prof. Corbett pointed to two herds of the same breed. The average production of the cows of one of the herds was valued at $37.00 more than the other, due either to better feeding, better animals, or both.

While touching upon rations it was pointed out that a farmer would pay to mix his own rations, even though saving might not be over twenty cents a hundred. In most cases the saving amounts to about fifty cents.

"The first thing in buying any feed is the analysis," said Prof. Corbett. The higher the fibre content the less digestible is the feed. Try to buy a feed with a fibre content as low as 10%. Some have given preference to a lighter colored feed thinking it was better. Take, for instance, hominy. There is the white hominy made from white corn and the yellow made from yellow corn. The white costs two dollars more a hundred, but is no better for feeding than the yellow.

A lot of attention has been recently given to molasses for feeding. This is a straight carbohydrate. It is not to be compared with corn. It has been shown that the fat content in milk might be raised by feeding molasses. I have had raised of exhaustive tests in feeding molasses to cows, and I know that this is not true."

Among several questions answered for the members were the following. "How much more valuable is corn with ears than without ears for silage? What is the comparative value of millet for silage? What is the best feed to supplement pasture?"

In answering the first, Prof. Corbett stated that the corn with ears was much more valuable because more milk could be secured and less grain needed to be fed to cows having this kind of silage. The corn being recommended by the Farm Bureau has the advantage of early production and heavy yielding qualities.

"The best silage now known is corn, sunflower probably comes next with millet third in order for this state. The summer silo with good silage is the best source of feed to supplement pasture."

Pointing out the value of continuing cow test association work, Prof. Corbett stated the fact that Wisconsin, the biggest silage state in the union and the first to start these associations, now has 103 and they have been increasing since 1906, when the first ones were organized. There are now 453 in the United States.

"If you don't believe in a thing, why worry so much about the people who do? If other people believe in it, is it any of your business?"

Proposed Fair Grounds.

An enthusiastic meeting of the citizens who propose to purchase the Prof. W. R. Chapman estate for a fair ground was held in Oden Hall Tuesday evening. Reports were made and a soliciting committee appointed to raise the rest of the money necessary to carry out the plan. During the evening it was announced that Oden had already subscribed for stock and were ready to lend their support in other ways. An active campaign is to be staged the coming week. Hon. H. H. Hastings presided.

The success of the movement depends upon the individual citizens. It is understood that quite a bit of the $25,000 wanted is in sight and the committee will make every effort to raise the rest.

The meeting was the third one that has recently been held. The members of the soliciting committee who will start out on Monday are: George Harlow, Harry King and Ernest Walker. The small share holder will be sought just as much as the larger one. An agitation was started several months ago for the purchasing of the property which is the scene of the Old Riverside Park Association, where exhibitions and races were held for a number of years. Among those who have worked on the proposition are F. J. Tyler, H. E. Littlefield, L. U. Bartlett, Lesco Hall, George B. Harlow, Harry R. King, W. C. Gerry, J. P. Skillings. In fact the River Grange is invited to be the guests of Bethel Grange Thursday evening, November 17th. The third and fourth degree will be conferred at that time, followed by a Harvest Feast.

The Chapman estate is located a short mile above the village and borders on the Androsoggin River. It embraces a large tract of fertile land and many thousands of dollars have been expended by the professor who occupied it for a number of years. Besides a large hospitable house there here there are three large barns, the upper one being well located for an exhibition building.

Reels of electric wires, have been installed so that the place could be illuminated up to light as day. Cattle occupied the attention of Prof. Chapman for a few years, as a side line and at one time his herd numbered 100 head, Herefords being specialized in.

The house itself includes 22 rooms including a large music room. There are several fireplaces and the structure is modern in every way. The place would make an ideal dining club house and by many is thought to be just what it should be converted into. Arrangements could also be made to house the horsemen who would be training horses there during the summer.

When the buildings the form of the old track may be seen, Prof. Chapman is not molesting the township since he purchased the property after the fair was discontinued. In its palmy days the track of the Riverside Driving Club is said to have been one of the best in the country. Horsemen used to come down to the annual meets with strings of horses from Boston and other sections of New England.

Horace Nelson of Waterville, with his famous horse Nelson, loved the State record when he went a mile in 2:15. Nelson used to come up in private car and the Grand Trunk Company has him a string of fine horses. In his opinion the track was one of the best in the world. Billy Gregg of Andover was another well-known horseman to race there.

Prof. Chapman himself, states that he spent a fortune on horses which he trained there. Among his purchases was a high-bred colt he bought of Nelson. Among other horses was Bonney Nelson, 2:19 1/4, Miss Strike 2:21, Neilson 2:14 1/4.

The fair enjoyed an era of prosperity under such officials as H. H. Hastings president, and Lesco Hall secretary. The last year they held office the racing reached a high point of entertainment with a seven heat free for all. The entries for the races that season numbered 52 which was large for those days and the enthusiasm ran high. The officials of the fair the last year it was held, which was about 15 years ago, were Dr. J. A. Twaddle, president; Wid Twaddle, secretary.

In its reorganization the association plans to hold a rural agricultural fair, with cattle, sheep, swine and agricultural products on display. The old bed of the old race course is said to be intact and will be worked over and put into first class shape. A grand stand will be erected and a fence built around the park, which is bounded on two sides by main highways. Just above it is a beautiful pine grove which will be retained for the pomfort of the visitors to the fair.

Thinking that he had sold the property a few years ago, Prof. Chapman purchased the old Hastings stand on the hill in Bethel. This has been renovated into a beautiful place and has been furnished. More recently he has purchased the Aston estate in Shelbourne, N. H. This embraces 1,000 acres of land and is said to be one of the finest country homes in New England. Rich in furnishings and surroundings, it is the admiration of all who see it.

Fall movings are going on quite briskly. James Hutchins has moved his family to the Harris house, Broad Street. Ray York takes the Church street rent vacated by Mr. Hutchins. Cleo Russell and Miss A. Bethel Grange
Bethel Grange held an interesting meeting last Thursday evening. The first and second degrees were conferred. The program was interesting. There was a reading by Edwin Bennett. Song—"The Grange is Marching On." Topics for discussion, "Disarmament," opened by Bro. J. A. Little with a concise, enlightening talk. Bro. L. Morse followed with a paper. Others who took part were Worthy Master Copeland, Mrs. Ben Kimball read an article from the Literary Digest. The topic "Disarmament" is a momentous one and Bro. Little brought facts home with great earnestness. The farce "The Squashville Fire" was laughable. A Hal-lowne'en tableau was nicely given. WOODSTOCK

Dedication Exercises The dedication exercises for the dedication of Woodstock's new school building were held in the high school assembly room, Friday afternoon, Nov. 7, at 2:30 p. m. Hon. Augustus O. Thomas, State Supt. of Schools, being the speaker of the afternoon. Dist. Supt. Garcelon presided and announced a program conducted by members of the school. G. W. Q. Perham traced the history of Woodstock from the early days. The old county road over the hills to Paris was cut through more than 125 years ago, making Woodstock the connecting link between Bethel and Rumford, the big towns in the North with Norway and Paris, in the South, and ever since Woodstock has continued as that link. Woodstock stood among the first towns in Maine according to valuation, in its improved roads and from the log schoolhouses of the early days, the educational facilities had steadily improved until 1915, the town, at a cost of between seven and eight thousand dollars, erected what is now the east side of the present building. It was built to accommodate the grades and about thirty high school students, and was expected to take care of the needs of the town for years as there were only fifteen students in high school at that time. By the spring of 1921 students, had increased to 47 with a corresponding increase in the grades and at the annual meeting, Woodstock, by a large majority, voted to double the size of the building and at a cost of $10,000 the work was carried to completion in time for the opening of the fall term. It was built by a Woodstock contractor entirely with Woodstock money and would compare favorably with any in the state.

B. B. Gillmore, principal of the high school, spoke briefly in regard to the way the school was being backed up by the citizens. Whenever an entertainment or social was held for the benefit of the school, the people were there to help and this spirit of cooperation was much appreciated by the teachers.

Supt. A. B. Garcelon spoke of his trip through the South the past summer. He traveled through many states of the Union and felt satisfied that our schools compared favorably with any in the country.

Dr. Thomas spoke of his trip with the Governor through northern Maine, and was a wonderful state with vast possibilities. Maine raised an immense crop of apples and potatoes, but the best crop of all was its boys and girls. He liked the rural towns of Maine. He liked Woodstock. It was a good name for a town. It meant something solid and substantial. Here among these beautiful hills and mountains the town had provided one of the best school buildings to be found in any small town of our state and the opportunity offered the children of this community to acquire an education was the very best. Woodstock was to be congratulated on what it had done for its school.

A banquet was held at the Grange Hall dining room from 5 to 7 p. m., by the Alumni Association, proceeds for the benefit of the school and a social at the high school assembly room closed the exercises of the day.

Glenna Starbird of South Paris spent the week end at Ralph M. Bacon's. Miss Starbird is a Junior in Paris high school.

When is a Battery Old?

Some men are young at eighty—others are old at forty.

It's about the same way with batteries.

Their usefulness depends on the care they have had, the amount of work they have had to do, how they have been used, and most important of all—on the original quality of the battery.

There are many good reasons back of the decisions of the manufacturers of 173 makes of cars and trucks to use Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries.

Come in and we'll tell you more about them.

MID-SUMMER DAYS IN CASCO BAY

No. 4
"On the shores of Casco Bay, Where the boats at anchor lay, One may hear the wind sighing, Through the rigging, old and gray."

We went this year, to our summer home on Great Diamond Island, quite early in June. There were then but few of the residents in their cottages. The store had not been opened and we had to go up to the city for our supplies. A mail carrier was not assigned to the island till later in the season and our letters and papers reached us "hit or miss" several days after they arrived at the Portland office. And for the island was taken down by a government boat to Port McKinley, where what was designed for the family at the farm and the cottagers, was put into an old open box nailed to a tree, about four feet high just outside the main entrance. It was some time before I learned of this arrangement, and had my mail reach me regularly. During the meantime I had called twice at the office up in the city, where I found a crusty and unaccommodating official of the government, who evidently had been holding his job altogether too long for the public good. A vision of two smiling faces, with agreeable manners and accommodating ways, at the home office at Norway, flashed through my mind and I hated that "old sinner" and like the Dutchman's boy, thought "d—n", and wished for a minute or two he was in a warmer place than the Portland Post Office. Ah, there is nothing like having a public official kind, pleasant and obliging to all, high or low, as well as performing his duties in a routine way.

The store was opened about the 15th of June and was run for three months by two clerks from the main store in Portland. No better fellows ever handled groceries than Fred Hamilton and Clarence Thomas. They will succeed anywhere. I got in the way of telling them a story when I went to the store and they were not too busy waiting upon customers. I related at different times, all of John P. Swasey's anecdotes. I had seen and heard in court. My stock of stories was nearly exhausted when the season closed.

The new mail carrier followed a few days after the opening of the store. He had been in the service during the Great World War, but had obtained his position largely, I judged, through a "political pull". He made good however after he had "learned the ropes", and was a better official than the one he had succeeded, who had served sixteen years and was promoted.

I got acquainted with a former sea-captain who told me how we could always have good fat clams to eat. His name was Edward H. Wallace, who lived on Peak's Island, where he owned a fine place. He had sailed all over the world, but getting tired of a seafaring life had settled down on Peak's Island and carried on the business of a carpenter and builder. He is one of nature's noblemen, and one of the truest and best of friends where his confidence is given. Captain Wallace was at work for some weeks repairing the cottage next to ours and I had the opportunity to see quite a lot of him and hear some of his stories of life on shipboard which interested me very much.

Near the private wharf of the Island Association are several clam beds. The tide here rises from eight to ten feet. At low water the beach extends a long distance into the bay. The clams dug are not very large. Next year I think they will be larger for the beds were not dug over much this year. Captain Wallace's recipe for good fat clams is, after digging to put them into a pall and fill it with sea water, then add a couple of handfuls of Indian meal, change the water two or three times and add more meal. They will keep a week in a cool place and grow fat and good while the chowder will disappear. We had a hot when Fred H. Cummings, of my kind, us a delightful visit. Fred pronounced the chowder as fine and he is a good judge of such things.

One day when up in the city I called to see Governor Baxter at his office in the Press Building in Monument square. I found him a very pleasant and sociable gentleman to meet. He had an air of resolution and determination about him which I liked. I felt that he was up to the mark in every way—a set of skill and not over-scrupulous "wire-pullers" who are determined to "down him" and told him so. He seemed to understand it perfectly well, and appeared full of courage. He has scored mightily in dropping the contest over Davies and the "Public Utilities" bill. He is now something Senator Gurney, for chairman of the Public Utilities Commission. Davies has not added to his former good standing. He should have telegraphed the Governor when he was asked to withdraw, something like this: "Don't mind my personal interests but do what you think is best for the public good".

Letter From California

The following is from a letter from S. H. Ring: "We arrived in Redlands Oct. 27th, 3 p. m. after a fine trip; some few mishaps but on the whole a great trip, seeing much of our country in the best way possible. Our visit to the Petrified Forest was wonderful. We spent a few hours here and got beautiful specimens. More wonderful than we ever dreamed was the Grand Canyon. We stayed there twenty-four hours and wanted to stay a month (but too late in the season). We ran into a raincloud and had a thunder storm and by morning everything was white with snow. We left Williams, Arizona while it was still snowing, got out of the storm as we dropped down six miles, buried feet to find the sun shining but very bad roads. We were warned we could never get through but heavy trailer and all came through alright. One tire blew out in a mud hole so delayed us a half hour only. The Cadillac came all the long four thousand miles without a murmur at bad roads or her heavy load and we claim you can not beat her.

We were warmly greeted on our arrival by the Princes, S. B. and Z. S. Since formerly of Norway now of Grant Street, Redlands, an invited to dinner—a delicious dinner and a very happy time spent with these dear friends.

A. A. French and a party of five friends from Attleboro, Mass. spent the week end at Mr. French's camp at Lake. M. W. Sampson attended to the wants of the party during their stay and provided the "johnny cake", etc.

A Popular College Student

Victor Whitman, who is a member of the Junior class at Bowdoin, took a high rating for his thesis: "King Arthur and his court." Since he was a small boy in school he has always been greatly interested in King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. The young man is the son of Prof. and Mrs. Varne M. Whitman of Laconia, N. H. and one of the most popular of the college students. He organized a college orchestra which was named for him. It has played in several places in the state this fall and has got up a great reputation. The orchestra is called the best of its kind in Maine. The boys played at Augusta a week ago Saturday and their music was liked so well that they have a pressing invitation to play there again.

Maine is Prosperous Today

Because it has Water Power Developed

But What of the Future?

"Can you supply us at once with 500 horse power?"

Such a telegram reached us last week from a concern which plans to start a new enterprise in Maine.

"Yes," went back the answer.

For twenty years and more it has been our ambition that no industry which wants to locate in Maine shall ever be turned back for lack of power.

That was our job, as we saw it: to develop power and have it ready. Through the recent trying years, we have faced the issue, met the responsibility and kept the faith.

Industry hums throughout Maine. Few states in the Union are as busy and as prosperous.

Why?

Certainly Maine is not favorably located as to markets or raw materials. Surely we are handicapped by transportation charges.

Then Maine's prosperity must be due to one of two things:

Either the people of Maine are smarter than those of the rest of the country, or else MAINE PROSPERS BECAUSE IT HAS WATER POWER, DEVELOPED AND READY.

Two new industries have just located in one Maine town, two more in the town just below it, another in a nearby town. A score or more are making inquiries as to locations. Five or six Maine towns have industries just getting started. Many industries in our territory have enlarged or soon will enlarge their plants.

What is the first question these industries ask? It is this:

"Can We Get Power?"

Other states have surplus power too.

The difference between those states and Maine is and must continue that Maine's power is developed NOW and is ready for use—not all of it but always enough ahead to supply the needs of industries as they come.

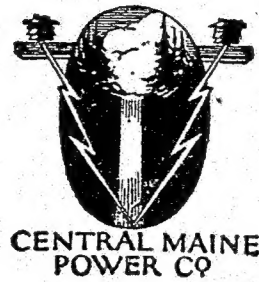

Other states are developing power. Five of them are spending one hundred million dollars this year. All of them together hope to raise and spend a billion a year for the next five years or longer on developing power.

But Maine Started First

Maine Has the Jump

How does Maine happen to be ahead? Well, look at recent hydro-electric history.

In war times power development the world over practically ceased because of a lack of investment money to finance it—but Maine's war industries needed power and Central Maine Power Company built its Rice Rips plant.

But if Maine is to grow, if it is to take advantage of its great natural resource, if it is to bring industries here, if population is to go up and taxes down; then necessarily Central Maine Power Company must continue to develop power.

People said it couldn't be financed—and true enough the normal springs of capital were pretty well dried up by the steady pumping of war demands.

"Let us turn to the people of Maine," said Central Maine Power Company, "tell them in newspaper advertising of our aim to keep Maine power developed to meet Maine's needs and ask them to put their money in the enterprise."

We did.

The result was that the people of Maine, through the purchase of preferred stock, financed the building of a power station on the Messalonskee Stream between Oakland and Waterville.

Then came the war's end and the days of expansion that followed.

More power was needed to enable Maine industries to get their share of the business. Capital was even less plentiful, however, then, than in war times.

Again Central Maine Power Company turned to the people of Maine.

Skowhegan Was Ready None Too Soon

"We are going to develop a big power site at Skowhegan," the Company said, "To have power ready for Maine needs. Let's finance it by buying preferred stock."

Again the story was told in the newspapers and again the people of Maine cast their financial lot with the home company that was working for the upbuilding of their home state.

The Skowhegan power station was built—and none too soon.

If Skowhegan had not been ready, Maine would have suffered for power this year, for the demand is 40% ahead of last year.

Despite this terrific demand by Maine industries and homes for electric energy, every need has been met; every industrial wheel in Maine has turned through the driest summer in 17 years.

From Now On It Is a Matter of Keeping Ahead

Central Maine Power Company enters the closing months of 1921 with a satisfied feeling of duty well begun.

We have faced the situation, we have met the need, we are—so long as the people of Maine stand behind us—ready for the future. We have "keep our light so shining a little ahead of the rest."

Ahead of Maine stretch good years. The Pine Tree State has the jump on the other water states. But being ahead from now on is a matter of KEEPING AHEAD.

Thanks to the advantage of an early start, Central Maine Power Company has not had to make this year any big power developments. It is building a dam, the North Channel Dam at Skowhegan, it is making line extensions and is doing other small matters. To finance this work a small amount of stock was issued most of which has already been sold.

We plan to clean up what remains of this small issue by January 15, in order to have the decks cleared for action.

This amount of stock is trifling and will be taken up in the natural course of the fall and winter demand for C. M. P. Co. securities.

Maine People Must Finance Maine Water Powers

This advertisement is published to bring home to the people of Maine a realization of what has been done with the 3½ million dollars they have put into preferred stock in the past 3½ years, to draw their attention to the hundreds of millions that other states are spending to get their power ready for market and to bring to them a realization that Maine water power development must for years to come be financed by Maine people.

Maine is not going to stand still. It has an opportunity and it must forge ahead.

Nothing is gained by merely TALKING about developing power. The big advantage comes from DEVELOPING power and getting it distributed where power is needed.

Have you put your shoulder to the wheel? Have you backed your state with your money?

Have you invested, as over 7,000 Maine people have, in Central Maine Power Company 7% Preferred Stock?

Every single cent of the net proceeds from the sale of this stock goes directly or indirectly into property—power stations, dams, lines—all tied right into the soil of Maine. Every cent is set to work, building Maine and helping to increase the prosperity of its people.

The preferred stock of the Company has paid dividends for 18 years. The Company officials believe it will always pay dividends.

Through the war and through deflation, when security prices in general slumped to hitherto unknown depths, Central Maine Preferred sold steadily at $107.50 a share. Now, with securities trending upward in price, it is unbelievable that the Company will ever sell it for less.

It is more than reasonable to suppose that the Company will one day, when money conditions return to normal, sell its preferred stock at a considerably higher price.

The Future Growth of Maine Is in the Hands of Maine People

The future financing of Central Maine Power Company is in the hands of Maine people.

We can, if Maine people wish, sell our construction machinery, settle back in our chairs and make good earnings from our present property for perhaps the next 500 years.

We can, if you wish, when industries ask us about locations, refer them to other states which are developing power.

But if Maine is to grow, if it is to take advantage of its great natural resource, if it is to bring industries here, if population is to go up and taxes down; then necessarily Central Maine Power Company must continue to develop power.

Other states need their investment money to develop their own industries. If Maine is to develop, it will be with Maine money. So ask yourself this question:

Will YOU back your home power company with your Maine-earned dollars in its work of building Maine?

The future of the Pine Tree State depends on your giving the right answer to that crucial question.

The John Pike Farm

The writer when calling recently at the exceedingly pleasant home of John Pike the possessor of the Post gold headed cane could not help wishing that all men who had reached his age could be as delightfully located as Mr. Pike was. He resides on the farm where he was born, Feb. 17, 1833 and having the facts that he is a widower and his eye sight is badly impaired he is well respected and has been a most industrious man and has always been counted one of Fryeburg's most enterprising farmers. He has two sons John W. and Enoch, who like their father succeeded him in taking over the wonderful farm of two hundred acres.

John J. succeeded his father Elder Pike as he was called. Mr. Pike's sons have followed the lines of their father and have with the modern improvements kept the farm up to the high standard that their father aimed for when he had to work early and late when the machinery of to-day was unknown.

Mr. Pike's sons are both married, have fine homes and charming wives with just a driveway between the houses, and he makes several calls daily. Every want of their father is anticipated.

The homes are supplied with daily papers and magazines and both homes are noted for their genuine New England hospitality. The older son, John W. and wife have not any children but Enoch and wife have two sweet daughters. The homes are beautifully located commanding an unobstructed view of Mt. Washington.

Mr. Pike is also blessed with three fine daughters who share with their brothers in their kindness to their aged father. Mrs. Frank Howe and Mrs. J. G. Severance who reside in Boston, and Mrs. Clarence Osgood of Fryeburg. They are all frequent visitors at the homes of their brothers. Mr. Pike takes a keen interest in affairs of the state and nation and it is a great pleasure to visit a family so united and harmonious and so cultured.
